U.S. Stocks Post Worst 10-Day Start to a Year in History

Joseph Adinolfi is a markets reporter and copy editor at MarketWatch. Barbara Kollmeyer is an Editor for MarketWatch in Madrid. On Friday 15th January they wrote:

'U.S. stocks closed sharply lower Friday, locking in the worst 10-day start to a calendar year ever, as oil prices plunged and investors worried about slowing growth in the U.S....

....Oil appeared to be the main driver of concern. Both the U.S. CLG6, UK:LCOG6 and global benchmarks settled below $30 a barrel, as investors feared that supplies will continue to rise as Iran prepares to enter the market and Russia continues pumping oil to help support its flagging economy.....

.....Selling began in China after official data showed that new bank loans were lower than expected in December as lenders sharply curtailed activity amid worries about slowing growth and bad debt. In a bid to boost liquidity, China's central bank said it pumped $15 billion of funds into the market via a medium-term lending facility on Friday....."

In Edition 505 of his 'Investing & Online Trading Report' of 28 March 2015, Jim Berg posted his first Warning Signals article regarding the USA Market. He has progressively updated the charts from that article several times since. In Edition 511 of 9 May, Jim posted his first 2015 Caution notice for the Australian market too.

As a result of these Caution warnings, Jim gradually wound back notional positions as their stops were triggered/targets achieved and ceased adding new 'long' positions to this Report's notional portfolios and his new Signals Services, then switched to show his members how to trade the downside - without using leveraged instruments - as these markets fell.

In August 2015, while global markets plummeted and many 'long' portfolios fell, those of Jim's Signals Members who followed his bear market trading lead at that time exited using his JB Profit Taker Exit Signal and achieved a 12.7% profit in 4.1 weeks, as shown in this extract from Edition 527:

Jim Berg's Blue Bar Volatility Entry Signal on Friday, 24th July.

Jim Berg's Profit Taker Exit Signal given to Signals Members 24th August

{Entry price at $17.15.
Exit price $19.33 i.e. +
12.7%}

Exit on Tuesday 25 August at Profit Target of 12.7%.

On Friday 15th Jan 2016, the S&P500 traded below its August 2015 Low, then rebounded intraday to close above it, as shown in this chart:

We will now watch to see whether the S&P500 will either:

- 1) Find support and rebound from here, or
- 2) Break down further below this level and close lower in coming weeks

Meanwhile, in his Signals Service, Jim Berg continues to trade and invest in falling markets using our own latest research which we carried out and explained in Editions 525 to 545 of our 'Investing & Online Trading' Report. Jim currently plans to:

- a) Manage the existing 'open' positions, all of which are currently showing open profits in both Australia and USA markets (ranging from +4.5% to +15.2%) and
- b) Also look for new Entry Signals for trading and investing, with the aim of profiting from falling markets in both countries - without the need to add extra risk from using leveraged instruments

We also continue to feature progressive updates to a selection of Jim's Signals Service trades in our weekly mentoring-style 'Investing & Online Trading' Report.

For example, below we show 2 USA examples from this week's latest Edition 546. Jim notified his Trading and Investing Signals Members on 4 January of JB Volatility Blue Bar Entry Signals, ready for an entry into these trades on the following day.

These Signals trades rose while global markets fell this month.

On 7 January, i.e. only 2 days after entry, Jim advised his Signals Members that both trades had triggered his JB Profit Taker that day.

Both trades were exited at their profit targets this week, with each achieving short term profits of +10.0%, in only 1.1 and 1.4 weeks respectively, as shown below:
